

Sophie lived on the edge of the world with her father, a fisherman who had traveled across the sea so many years ago.

Together they lived on the north shore of Lake Superior, the largest of the Great Lakes, but Sophie liked to imagine it was the edge of the world.

Every morning Sophie watched her father motor out into the big lake in his dory named Aster.